Hay winter has set in. I hope you all enjoyed your holidays.

I am just starting the new issue of Marty's Random Thoughts. I see I forgot to tell everyone that the last issue of 2011 is published so I best go do that now. Hang around I will be back to type some more is a little while.

2012 Calendar

I have a 2012/13 calendar available for you for you to print out if you need one. Each year is on one page. You can access it the same place you access on the same page you the newsletter. There is also a link to the online version of the calendar.

Well, while sending out the email to announce I got a text message with two words I never saw before and thought they were just typos.

The two words were "scosh" and "nees". Both of them are words that had meaning once I looked them up. I will leave them to you to look up. This is my assignment for you this month.

What Next

Well first the text message is telling me I am going up to Harvard for lunch. So I have a few minutes before I have to head out.

I started to gather up the 2011 issues of Marty's Random Thoughts to make them into a book. Well I found one issue that the file was corrupted. Even the backup copy could not be opened. Not to worry. I had a nice clean printed copy. With a little computer magic and some time I should be able to make it back in a Word file that I can use.

I want to make all 12 issues available as a book. It is cheaper than printing it out on my printer. I think I will work on that after lunch.

The next project will be to work on my Income Taxes so I can get them out of the way. I don't want to be working on them when it time to leave for Spain.

Then it will be going through the process of deciding if I really will be going to Spain to walk the Camino de Santiago.

I am looking for people that would like to go to. I am posting my thoughts on this at <http://doerofthings.com/camino>. You can read my thoughts and comment and even teach me some things. I will read all the comments and reply to most.

First I need to go for lunch and then get ready for spring. The weather report is for 43° on Friday. What's up with this weather? January 2nd last year I had green grass. My thermometer says 21° now. Can spring be very far away?

Well I have to go.

4-Jan12 11:06am 32°

Boy I am tired today. I went out and had my second workout class with a group and I am just dragging. Friday Michelle said I was ready to join a group and it is different. I think I will adjust to exercising different. For now I am have withdrawal. I have spent 3 days a week with Michelle since September.

It is like being a duck. Sometimes you have to jump into the water and swim with the other quackery.

I am sure I will be fine in 10 or 13 years. ☺

Michelle has helped me for the last 3 months to learn I can do this and has encouraged me to get where I am today. I am 20 pounds lighter and at least one size smaller. Yes I added 4 new holes in my belt and with this pair of pants I am using the last hole.

The deal people, if you want to have some fun and willing to work a little. Go see Michele!

Anila Home Coming

Last I heard Anila is returning to Woodstock next Monday. I have been missing our visits for quite some time. It will be good to see her and hear all about her adventure in Albania. We have only spoke a couple times while she was back in her home country.

I wonder if after six weeks being away from her job is we will have to retrain her. Maybe I could pour my own coffee until her is retrained. ☺

Oh My God

Aunt Annie called and invited me for lunch. Since I had been dragging all morning I figured I must have the wrong stuff for breakfast.

After I returned Michelle called and asked if I had lunch. So I joined her too. I was telling her about I had been dragging all morning. I guess I might have been from eating French toast after my workout our instead of protein like eggs.

Anyway I did not eat lunch again just after having that Reuben, cottage cheese, and pudding when I was with Aunt Annie. I just had coffee with Michelle.

Well I just looked up the calories in a Reuben sandwich. Oh my God! 768 calories for just the sandwich! I think that blew my diet for the next 2 days. Who would have known?

Now I need to take a nap because I am stuffed.

7-Jan-12 10:18am 37°

What's up with this weather? Yesterday morning around 5:15 I walked up to Starbucks, out to EWT, then TC, stopped Vaughn's, visited at the gas station, back to Starbuck's then finial got home at 12:30. Even with all the exercising I have been doing. I haven't been walking that much. My caves were sore! After a little advice from Michelle I applied heat to my sore muscles and in a few hours I was fine.

This reminded me what it felt like when I tried to walk across Spain the first few days without preparing myself. This time I will start walking...well yesterday. It will help my legs get a little more ready than the last time.

I plan on walking up to 15 miles (about 25 kilometer). I figure around 2,500 a mile for my stride. That means I could be doing 37,500 steps per day. Yesterday I walked less than 11,000 steps. And I have been averaged about 4,000 steps per day. And I only walked more than 10,000 steps 6 times since last October.

So what does this all mean to you? Only that you might see me walking more than normal. If you seem a long ways from home ask me if I would like a ride home. I might just accept it. As I get closer to heading to the Camino I might not need as many rides. For now I might push myself too hard and need that ride.

As for my sore legs from yesterday I have recovered and plan to walk out to E.W Training at 11:15 this morning on foot. They are having an open house today and a raffle. Maybe I will win a trip to Spain or something. Yeah right!

From there I am going to walk over to Town & Country for lunch and see if I can get a ride home. I don't want to overdo it two days in a row. Oh it is time to leave now. See ya!

7-Jan-12 4:35pm 34°

After over doing it walking yesterday I went for another walk and did not have any problem with my leg. I was a little sore this morning but fine now. If I keep working at it I should be able to walk to Europe to walk across Spain. :-)

Well I will be walking more and more to get in better walking shape. All though I have been working out it is not the same as walking miles and miles.

Reading for the Camino

This evening I have been checking to see how much of the stuff I carried in Spain still fit my body. The pants and shirts may be a little large. They will work because if it is cool I can use them for layering. Socks and other clothes will work fine unless I decide to get lighter ones to save weight. Cotton is heavy.

The electronic stuff has died in the last 5 years so they are different.

My hat has been modified so I have order a new one. Remember the modification to my hat? I should remind you and sow the other who did not see it.

Christmas 2010

I am wearing it while I am typing this and I see it fits a little loose.

12-Jan-12 3:21pm 27°

Boy was it a nice day yesterday. Well I think it was! ☺

Yesterday was one of those "I hate computer" days for me. I had one of those five minute fixes that I used to be able to do. It was one of those "I can't print" issues that normally I can fix in minutes. Well this one became a project. I contacted four different support people before it got resolved. The first one should me it was not caused by the anti-virus / firewall program. The last one says "Oh, you have Windows Vista!..."

Windows Vista handle this problem a little different than then others do. Anyway in minutes the problem was solved and I came home. Thank you Mia from HP Support!

I learned a new thing today. So even if I hated computers yesterday I got smarter. It may have blown my creditable as a know it all. What are you going to do? I have to learn new things.

Nice Day

Well yesterday was a nice day! I went to lunch and left my jacket in the car. Today I am all covered with snow and it looks like we may have more coming before morning.

I wonder if I have any gasoline in the garage for the snow thrower. Well I am nice and dry so I will check tomorrow. I have a shovel I can use.

After all they are saying only about 6 inches

14-Jan-12 10:46am 24°

Ok I'm over it now. Winter that is. I have been spoiled and Monday they say it will be 39° and I can't wait. All of my walking paths are covered with snow and/or other slop. I started to like my walks and even the cold was not stopping me much. THINK SPRING!!!!!!

Printer Problem

Well I checked and the printer is still working well. So I can get on to my next thing.

Trip to Spain

Well I am 99% sure I am going to Spain to walk the Camino de Santiago in the spring. Today I am thinking I will go the first week of May. I have not put out any money for the plane ticket so it could change.

Tomorrow I will be starting a searching for the plane ride and prices. Once I buy that ticket it will become an "I am really going!" thing.

They say it takes 30 days to walk the Camino from St. Jean, France to Santiago Spain. That is for the people that have only a month. Well I need to stop and smell the roses, well coffee, along the way.

It is around 500 miles and 30 days is about 17 miles a day. One of the things that did me in the last time was three 20 miles days in a row. So I plan on doing 10 to 15 miles a day. This all depends on how I feel at the time. This does not mean I might not do 20 or even 25 miles at times. It just means I will not be on any schedules to get to the Atlantic Ocean at any particular time. Well, maybe for it freezes over. If it freezes I may try to walk to Woodstock from the west coast of Spain. ☺

Anyway if some of you would like to tag along, I help you get started. I have limits what I know but I will share what I know. We could walk together until we get tired of looking at each other.

Few people walk at the same pace so we may drift apart and meet up at the next town for coffee, wait that is café con latte.

Mike went with me in 2007 and helped me get started. Even though I am no expert I am good at faking it. I would be glad to help where I can.

Prepping for the Camino

I have been working on some of the things I think I want to do to prepare to walk 500 miles. Since I am only 99% sure I am even going I am doing things I think I could use if I go or not.

Heath

First thing is to be in better health. The only exercise I got the last time was walking for the house to the car and lifting a coffee cup to my mouth. Thanks to Michelle's help I think I am much fitter than I was five years ago.

Walking

I am walking more and more because walking is different than the workout at EWT. I will be walking caring around all my belongings around twenty pounds for about 500 miles. So I am walking a little more than in the past.

Language

When I walked the Camino in 2007, wow it was almost five years ago. Well I thought I knew a lot of Spanish words. And I did think that! I didn't starve or go without a bed but I struggled a lot!

I bought Rosetta Stone software to help me learn to speak Spanish. I have work with this a little and think this will help me learn enough Spanish. I would like to be able to learn directions so when they tell me to turn left I don't go right or if I want an apple I don't get a roll up newspaper. Well you get the idea.

Even if I don't go to Spain, it would good to be health and learn Spanish.

Other prep steps.

I also need to find a cheap round trip or one way plane ride. I may buy the return trip ride when I get ready to come home.

I need to lighten up my backpack. Last time I think it was twenty-six pounds when I left home. I had too much stuff and unloaded things along the Camino. This time I am shooting for the whole thing to be around 15-18 pound plus maybe food and water. Water is around 4 pounds and 2 of food.

I have some different and light things this time.

I need some clothes that are lights and dry faster. A couple times my clothes did not dry before I was ready to go in the morning. Wet close are heavy.

The backpack itself weighed over 6 pounds and it was too big. You see there is a lot of reviewing to do with weight.

One Other Thing

Money! I need to make sure I have enough money for this adventure and it has to be available in Europe. Right now today it cost me about $1.28 to but € 1.00. This means if my trip cost me € 2,500 last time it will cost me about $3,200 US.

Before even figuring out how much this are going to cost I figured I need around fifty one-hundred dollar bills. Maybe prices lowered? ☺

18-Jan-12 4:25 pm 24°

So now I am going to try and write this entry on my iPad. So far I have typed this much and I have not broken a finger or a nail or anything. Maybe I will be able to use this once in a while. Now that you know I am using the iPad I wish I could think of other things to tell you. Oh here is something. The word processor I am using is called "Pages" and cost less than $10.00! It even can help me spell. Not that I need that. :-) Let's see if I can easily insert a picture. Oh Wow, that was too easy! I looked at the pictures, clicked on one, and it was there. All I had to do is make it smaller by pushing the corner together and then drag it to where I wanted it. It was even smart enough to let me type on one side of it with changing any settings.

This is a map of Spain.

I only just copied and pasted this above story from the iPad. It was very easy. I only reformatted the date so the "°" symbol would be there. Now I need to learn some of the tools.

22-Jan-12 4:51pm 30°

Well I have been busy fixing computer and shoveling snow the last week or so. I have also been looking for a cheap way to get to Saint Jean pied-de-Port, France. Well I am committed now. Well, I mean I am going to Walk the Walk again. I put the money out for a plain ticket to Paris.

I know Paris is a long ways from St. Jean Pied-de-Port but I haven't figured out the best route or best price. I have four month to figure that out.

I have created a web page where I go in to more detail of my trip. I will be updating it as I get ready with some of the details as I get time. When I am walking the walk I think the posting will be pretty much random. Please check it out any time and leave comments.

Website title is "Walk the Walk."

23-Jan-12 3:59pm 27°

Crazy weather! One day it is minus two one day and a couple days plus 40°. Well it is winter and the year 2012. I guess we can't change the weather so we will have to live with it. At least I don't think we can change it.

Now that I have my plane ticket bought I will be updating my "Walk the Walk" journal website on my trip more than putting it in to the newsletter.

I think I have all those computers I was fixing working again. Also I think I have all the apps I need on the iPad I need for now. What does this mean?

Well I can start working on Mom's pictures albums and get the things I need for my backpack together for my trip. Well I might still go for coffee, exercise, and pay bills from time to time too. ☺

Mary's Knee

You may not know it but Mary will be off work for a couple of weeks. She is going to have her knee worked on. Since her husband, Marty had his worked on last year it is payback time for him to take care of Mary for a while.

You know with Mary on sick leave from Vaughn's I won't be seeing her much until next month. If anyone hears anything let us know. I'll do the same. Get Well Soon Mary!

Two Jan 7th

I was just doing a quick look at the newsletter and I see there are two January sevenths. I have no idea which one is right so I am guessing we had two this month and will leave then there. I also see there are many days missing. Maybe I got taking by a UFO causing some missing time. They say that happens.

Since I have an extra day maybe I up ducted an UFO and got too much time back. Any way there are more or less days in this newsletter.

27-Jan-12 3:53pm 39°

So it was another nice day. You it could stay nice like this until spring and then get spring like and I would be okay with me.

More Notches

I noticed I have one of those new pairs of pants on today. That would one of those two pairs I bought one size too small about four months ago. I notice that my belt was out of holes again. Today I added two more notches. It now has twelve notches. When you buy then there are only five. Well I only added the new holes I am not using them yet. Soon I will need them too.

Really I need to buy a smaller belt because this one is over lapping about a third and it feels sloppy. For now I will keep using it until it is a 50% over lap.

Thought I have been losing the weight I must give Michelle credit for guiding me. She has been a very positive influence in my life. Thank you Michelle!

I must thank the other people at E. W. Training too. Thank you!

29-Jan-12 7:5am 26°

I am sitting at Town & Country this morning watching it snow and the people gathering for breakfast. There was only one couple in here when I arrived a half over ago. Now there are about fifteen.

Though it snows heavily now they say we will get only about an inch. And I see in the news paper that after today the temperature is going to be in the 40's.

The scary thing is that Groundhog Day it is going to be sunny!

I have been busywork thinking getting ready for Walking the Walk and not thinking much about the newsletter. Well I am thinking about it now or I wouldn't be typing this.

Having this iPad has been getting me to use it more and more each day. I keep finding more and more things it can do. The original idea was to see what it could replace on my walk to save weight. After a while I thought an iPhone could do all of this and weigh a lot less. Two days I used Anila iPhone and decided the extra weight of the iPad is well worth it because I could see the screen much better. And it would be a lot easier typing.

I activated the 3G on the iPad the other day to see how much usage I might use the cell phone system a posed to using Wi-Fi which is free most places. I found that I do not use very much more than Wi-Fi so the cost could be low. For now I will just monitor the usage.

When I go to Spain I might need to use 3G if I can't find free access. That is four month from now.

I was shopping yesterday and bought a couple things for my trip to Spain. I am looking for very light things after all I need to carry this thing from my front door to the west of Spain. All of my belongings will be in my backpack and on my back while I walk 500-600 miles. I should read my guide book at least once before I head to the airport. I will start reading it as soon as I finish Mike & Petra's book.

Well the restaurant fills with people so I must make my leave!

Book Finished

I just finished reading Mike & Petra's book, "Encounters on the Road to Jerusalem", 2011

Even though I followed Mike's and Petra's adventures very closely I enjoyed this book. They let you know how things are going as if you were walking right along with them. I will give this book a 4.5 on the MRT scale.

Next book

I have already chosen my next book. Since I will be heading for Spain in 4 months I thought I would read my guide book which is an updated version of the one I had the last time. "A Pilgrim's guide to the Camino de Santiago" is written by John Brierley and is one of the higher rated guides.

This is the 8th edition. I had an earlier edition back in 2007 but for the most part never read it. I relied on the maps but only read the text from time to time. There is a lot about the history of the Camino, the towns, places to stay, phone numbers, and of course maps.

I have also the Maps only version of Brierley's guide. It only weighs about 1/4 as much.

Since I am going to walk the Camino de Santiago I thought I would read up on the place it may make it more interesting when I really get there.

I am still entertaining the idea that someone out there might like to go on this adventure too. If you are interested contact me I will try and answer your questions.

30-Jan-12 7:07pm 37°

Well I think I will go back to bed. I have spent most of the last 24 hours in bed. I caught cold and it hit me like a ton of bricks. Another 12 hours under the covers might let my body heal itself. If not I will have some strange dream like last night.

Good Night!

2-Feb-12 1:29pm 36°

Well it is Groundhog Day and there is a big hole in the ground next door. They have dug up the sewer from the house to the street. They have left for lunch. Later maybe they will dig up the street.

I just recovered this newsletter. It crashed. I hope this backup was edited. Well I best check it.

Full Event Calendar

I have put the whole calendar in this issue. I had a little extra space and thought you might like.

If you have correction please let me know.

Now I close this issue and will start getting ready for other things.

Remember only you can prevent forest fires!
