Too Many Active Projects

I have started a lot of things that haven't been worked on for a while.

Rain gutter screens are not installed yet. That may be part of the problem with the wet basement.

My book isn't done yet. I just finished editing it. Now I have to make all the changes and get it off to the printer. I think this will be my last edit. I need some one to read it and see if I missed anything that really shouldn't be in it.

I still have to get an antenna working so I can get the HDTV working. This would save me some money if I get off the satellite TV. I may find out when I do that I miss it and have to go back. to DirecTV. We'll see.

I have a lot of other half started project too. They can wait. Three is enough for now.

Out of Ink

I just ran out of ink on the printer. I guess the last issue will have to wait. Wait...I guess I can print it in black and white. Yup, that is what I'll do.

Media Scare

Is there really something to be afraid of or is this just some thing to get our minds off of something else?

I'm not always sure it isn't just a diversion. Remember the peanut butter and the tomato not too long ago. I was eating both of them during that time. And now that pigs can fly!...

Is this what I should be scared of?

Rain This Year

It has bee raining a bunch just lately. Here is what I have recorded from my weather station.

Year	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr
2004	████	████	3.72	1.36
2005	2.42	0.79	0.68	1.79

Web Calendar

This after noon I have been trying to enter more events I know are happening around Woodstock.

2-May-2009 12:49pm 64°

You know I don't think it rained yet today!

This morning I have been working on my Web Calendar April to July 2009 data is loaded. I may work on that later today as I going to work on something else instead.

3:23pm

I worked on the Web Calendar some more since lunch time. I think I have the Birthdays and events put into the calendar for Apr thru Aug 2009. If you have access to the internet I need you to take a quick look at it and see how it looks. You shouldn't have to login or anything. For now it is public so any one can view it.

It is a good place to have a public calendar for all of my readers to see what is coming up. I will work on loading other yearly events and try to get them in before I finish this newsletter.

I will put the generic instructions in this issue and see how it works adding the calendar to the newsletter.

3-May-2009 11:07am 67°4-May-2009 3:12pm 78°

I almost put something in the newsletter yesterday. I know I put the date in here. Oh well.

Solar Panel

Last year I setup that solar panel and used it ever since to charge the batteries of most of my camera, and other rechargeable things and even my edger-trimmer.

I finally got around to installing my old solar panel with it so now I should get my full 67 watts in full sun light. That doesn't sound like much but it will lets me put a couple more things out there to charge.

Flowers

I planted some flower bulbs today. I had some bulbs I got last year on sale. They didn't look so good. I planted them anyway. They didn't look rotten just dry. I haven't planted bulbs for year and years so I don't remember what they should look like. I already had the holes dug so I planted them. If nothing else I will have some compost in that spot.

I am so unsure if they are good I am not even going to tell you what or where I planted. I will tell you this. If they come out you will see then when you drive by from July to September.

Radishes

The last couple years I planted a few radishes and they didn't turn out well. I planted some more of them this year.

Seeds

Maybe I should plant some other things. I have Cucumber, Cantaloupe and Lettuce seeds that are not too old. I may plant then in the days to come.

I have a lot of very old seeds I have been using the last few years. I should go through them and see if I can grow anything from them.

Most people think you have to buy new seeds ever year. Yes you have a better chance with new seeds. I have found seeds that are stored in a cool dry place for years still grow. Most very do very well.

Sometimes after 10 or 15 years some of the seeds die and maybe only 50% will grow. If you get a package like that then you should use them all up.

When I plant my garden I plant one seed at a time. If they do not start popping out of the ground when they should I plant the whole package. In most cases I only use 10 of 15 seeds out of package at a time so I always have a lot of seeds of the following year.

Flower seeds don't seem to last so long. The veggies do just fine over the years.

Worth Printing Here?

Newspaper publishers and TV news producers must love the Swine Flu: A scary headline is good for circulation.

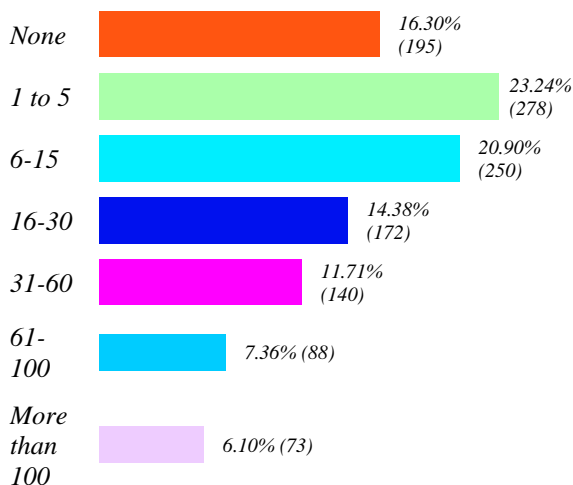

My comment: I saw this statement somewhere so I guess I have to start putting scary headline in my newsletter. ☺

Wow!

I just saw this survey and couldn't believe it.

I was out hanging up laundry to dry when it dawned on me it was the first Tuesday of the month. Well it didn't just come to mind. They blew that siren again. Every time I hear it I figure that there is a bomb going to drop on our heads on the first Tuesday of the month and no one will be paying attention because it happened on the first Tuesday of the month at 10:00am.

I know it is now called a server weather alert siren. It is the same thing.

The tornado will happen on a Tuesday at 10:00am. Duck and Cover!

I have to go and hang some more laundry to dry now.

I just came in from mowing the front lawn. I had just enough charge in the trimmer the trim that much of the lawn to. Tomorrow I will try to do the back the same way.

From the INBOX

Baptist Cowboy

A cowboy, who is visiting Wyoming from Texas, walks into a bar and orders three mugs of Coors. He sits in the back of the room, drinking a sip out of each one in turn. When he finishes them, he comes back to the bar and orders three more. The bartender approaches and tells the cowboy, "You know, a mug goes flat after I draw it. It would taste better if you bought one at a time." The cowboy replies; "Well, you see, I have two brothers. One is in Arizona, the other is in Colorado. When we all left our home in Texas, we promised that we'd drink this way to remember the days when we drank together. So I'm drinking one beer for each of my brothers and one for myself." The bartender admits that this is a nice custom, and leaves it there.

The cowboy becomes a regular in the bar, and always drinks the same way. He orders three mugs and drinks them in turn.

One day, he comes in and only orders two mugs. All the regulars take notice and fall silent. When he comes back to the bar for the second round, the bartender says; "I don't want to intrude on your grief, but I wanted to offer my condolences on your loss." The cowboy looks quite puzzled for a moment, then a light dawn sin his eyes and he laughs. "Oh, no, everybody's just fine," he explains, "It's just that my wife and I joined the Baptist Church and I had to quit drinking." "Hasn't affected my brothers though."

My Comment: Well my brothers when do you think we should start a tradition.

Web Calendar

I think I have all of the Birthdays, and Anniversaries that I had in my birthday list I used before into the new program.

I would like you to check it out.

<http://martysrandomthoughts.com/webcalendar>

Just go to this page and see if it will work for you and that I have your birthday in there.

I started loading my data on April-2009 There will no data before that. So check you next birthday and the following year to see If I have it repeating yearly. Remember I do not have last names in my calendar so you only have to let me know if it is wrong.

Right now I am the only one that can change this data. I could use some help keeping the events up to date. If you would like to help with this please let me know.

It is easier than writing in a calendar on the wall. Really it is better because you don't have to do it next year for the same birthday. And you even can have you own calendar that you are the only one that see it.

8-May-2009 4:00am 51°

Yes that does say 4:00am. I don't understand it either. Well since I am awake I think I will stay up and see what today brings.

Yesterday I cut the grass in the back. I forgot how lumpy the lawn has gotten. It was hard pushing the mower around the yard. I need to figure out how I can make that smoother. Maybe I could rotor till the whole thing and start over. Maybe plant sod. Wait you don't plant sod you lay it. You plant grass seed.

I am getting tired just thinking about doing that. Maybe I could fill up some of the bigger holes. Two or three back of dirt should help that. Or I could use some of that compost I have started. How long before it becomes compost?

Now What

I guess since I am up I should start moving around some what so I don't lay down and go back to sleep. I can't go for coffee yet because everyone else is probably sleeping yet. I guess if I shut this computer down for a while I would find something to do.

Walking East

By now you may know the Mike and Petra's pilgrimage web site is WalkingEast.com. Did you know that they have made past Hesston, KS? In fact Marcia said she went to Marion, KS and spent a few hours with them.

It won't be long and they will be walking into Woodstock.

Walking Around

I have been walking around the last fewdays. Wednesday I walked around the outside streets of the Square. Yesterday and today I walked the path to Vaughan's and The Three Brothers and home. One day I went one direction and the next the other.

Today I measured the distance with the GPS and it showed 3.75 mikes round trip. It was 1.6 miles from home to The Three Brothers this morning. Yesterday I think it was 1.7 Miles to Vaughan's. So if I was keeping track it is 20% of what Mike and Petra are doing.

If I started Walking East now I would get to about to New Your about the time they get to Rome. ☺

If I do this a few more times I will add some mileage. I know if I try to add too much all at once I will give it up.

Adding mileage...Let me think...I could add a block or two each trip.

Maybe one day go north for a block then go down east on Grove to Madison then south and out for Coffee. Then maybe the next time go clear to Todd. And then the next time start out by going west on 1st and walk down the street that goes along the railroad tracks, Railroad Street maybe.

Now slow down Marty. Just one step at a time!

Some Days Things Happen

Today I got off to a good start then I got the mail. There was a letter in there from the IRS. For some reason when I paid my taxes the transfer of funds didn't go through on April 15th. So I had sent them a check to cover it. Well for some reason they didn't apply the check to my account and sent me another letter. So I had to send them a letter to show them that they cashed my check and the bank paid it. That made my morning. So what was I going to do today?

Geocaching

I have my first cache placed. It took me a while to get it approved because I was new at it and had to get it right so they would publish it. I got it done this morning and some one has verified it.

Go to www.geocaching.com/ and you can get into the fun too. Just search for Woodstock, IL and look for "On-the-rails" on the list. This is my first placement of a cache. When I get some time then there will be more.

9-May-2009 11:27am 67°

Good morning. Today I don't walk. 3 days walking and I take a day off.

My Book Title

I have my book ready to print another draft except for the title. I was doing some brain storming when I was with Mike & Petra trying to come up with a title. they were a good help but it still isn't just right.

I started with "Marty's Adventure Spring 2007, Visit Germany and Walk Spain, My Journal" when I was writing it but it doesn't say anything. I think the title should say what it is about and a little about what is in the story. I think I will have to go over it and see what I come up with.

Farmers Market

Again I forgot to go up and check out the market. Remember it is from 8am to 1pm Tuesday & Saturday from now through October.

Book Title

I thought about it and I came up with the following title for my book.

I'll Give it a Try 5 days, maybe!

Camino de Santiago

Yup! That it!

10-May-2009 6:02pm 58°

Nice day today. I thought we were going to get rained on this morning when I started to walk home from breakfast. It was sprinkling. I got hit with 4 drops and it was done.

Geocaching

This after noon I went for a walk at Silver Greek Park. Before a couple days ago I didn't even know it was there.

I parked in the back corner of Bates Park and walked in. I walked on the trail for a while and found it was a nature park. No car, or people there just me and nature.

While there I set another cache for others to find.

Did you know Woodstock has 22 parks? I didn't until I thought about walking some more. I wondered where I might go.

I will go back to Silver Creek Park again. It is the second largest park in Woodstock. Emricson Park is the about twice a big at 130 acres. Now I need to find the Westwood Nature Area is the third largest at 64 acres.

Garden

Some of the radishes I planted the other day have stuck their heads out of the ground. I like planting radishes because they grow so quick. Some things you plant you forget because they take so long.

I see one of the grapes has some new leaves on it too. One had leaves when I planted it. There is nothing new on that one. The other two still look like sticks stuck in the ground.

Don't expect any grapes to eat from these plants this year and maybe next year either. I think it take 2 year before you get grapes.

I cut back the raspberries when I did the siding on the garage. We'll have to wait a year or two for them to bear fruit too.

I should have a few radishes to eat. They only take about 30 days.

While I wait for the garden to grow a little I think I go over to the Dairy Queen.

11-May-2009 9:54am 51°

Well last night I went to the Dairy Queen and I eat what I bought before I went to bed. It was g-o-o-d!

Beer Garden

I told you I was walking more. I didn't tell you about the new beer garden they are putting in down the street. It looks like it might be part of the bar that is in where Mike & Slims used to be at the corner of Clay and Church. I think this is what use to be the Town Tape for a while too. Anyway the beer garden is on Clay Street side where Bucky Cleaner's use to sit. There was also a little mom & pop grocery in there when I first moved to Woodstock. Kimberling's I think was the name of it.

They just started construction on it and all I have is hear say so far. This means that that there may be nothing happening there. We will have to wait and see what becomes of the constitution.

Chocolate Chip Cookie Day

While I was in Angelo's from breakfast this morning I over heard some one reminding Cindy that Friday is Chocolate Chip Cookie Day. I had not heard this before so I don't know if a Cindy thing or it is a National event. Do any of you know if May 15th is National Chocolate Chip Cookie Day?

12-May-2009 9:50am 60 °

Before I go for a walk I should tell you that twenty-one years ago today I bought my house. I am starting to have that seven year itch again. This is the third time.

Farmer's Market

I walked around looking at the stuff at the Farmer's Market and I guess all the farmers were out working on the farm today. It is going to be a nice day for tilling today.

Paper Work Day

Even though it is going be a great day to spend out doors I think I should catch up on paperwork first. Somehow the paperwork never gets done by itself.

I should sell my house and move into a cardboard box or something. Wait cardboard is another form of paper, isn't it? I guess I should just do it.

I think I will go for that walk now.

I'm Back

I walked out to have coffee with Mary. She was ready to leave for home and gave me a ride to have coffee with Kim.

Kim told me where the entrance to Westwood Nature Area was located and warned me not to eat greasy food if I was hiking.

Woops, I should listen. I had fried mushrooms. They were so g-o-o-d!

Even though I only walked 3 miles and I had 2 breaks totaling an hour, I am still feel heavy and am dragging.

I still have that paper work to get done and I see the grass needs to be mowed too. Well I best get going!

Correction

Yesterday I told you about the Beer Garden that it going in up the street. Well it isn't the bar that is doing it. It is the bowling alley, Waynes Lanes. I used to go there when I was a much younger kid. I wonder if I could even hit a pin now days.

On the other hand I could help them plant those beer seeds in the garden..

13-May-2009 6:54am 53°

I see it rained again. This is May not April, isn't it?

What is a Person to Do

It is 7:49pm and I am bored or is it board. It has been a long, long time since I was this bored. I guess it will pass. I don't get bored very easy. There is always something to keep me active. I have been suffering from most of the day. I know it will pass. Sleeping doesn't make it better. Climbing the walls doesn't either. Maybe I should go hop freight and see where it goes. Maybe reading a book would help.

I know I will have a glass of wine and watch TV until I fall asleep.

Bored!

14-May-2009 6:44pm 63°

I guess I am not so bored now. I was busy all day until I headed to Menard's around 4:00pm when someone hit me from behind. And yes they were on the cell phone!

So I have lot things to do to keep me for being bored now. Be careful what you wish for!

I never got back to Menard's today. I went to Woodstock Auto Body to see Steve. Then I went to Vaughan's to see Anila and have diner with Aunt Annie and here friends.

Then I called the insurance company and set up an appointment for them to look at my car tomorrow.

Cell Phone While Driving

I saw this coming but I didn't have any where to go!

Car Crash

Monday morning I take my car to Woodstock Auto Body so they and the insurance can see what it will take to get it fixed. Hopefully it won't take too long to get it fixed.

I went up and got a hair cut this morning because I figured my hair was getting too heavy and giving me a head ache. I almost never get a head aches so I figure that might be the cause. Maybe it is a side effect of being rear ended the other day. I took a couple of Tylenol's. We'll see what happens after a while.

Electric Usage

I put new batteries in my power monitor so I could get a feel for how much electricity I am using on an hour by hour bases.

In the last 7 days I have used 189 kWh. A big part of that was the dehumidifier running in the basement. When I was having water getting in the basement it made it get very wet down there. I think I have that stopped for now so I turned off the dehumidifier. It is usually very dry down there all year round.

The problem is that rain gutter being plugged. Even though I have it working properly right now the problem is not fixed yet. I need to replace the gutter system for that corner of the house. There is just too much water flowing on that corner of the roof for that one little gutter. Menards does not have all the parts I need to fix this. I need to go to Home Depot.

While there I need a new basement window too. I have one that needs to be replaced.

Yum, Yum

Sometimes, you're driving along with your RV, and you're pretty hungry and you think, "Well, maybe I'll just pull over and make a sandwich." But, just before that happens, you turn a corner and see something that just blows you away (not literally, of course, as that would be very bad). You spot a sign advertising "Bait Sandwiches!" Well, if that doesn't make your taste buds dance a jig, well. . . what the heck will? Our favorite bait sandwich is the "Earthworm Club."

Trivia

The Wright Brothers were not the first to fly in heavier-than-air aircraft. People were flying in gliders long before the Wright Brothers were even born. But those gliders didn't have engines. That's what the Wrights added to their aircraft that put them in the record books.

Random RV Thought

On those occasions when you're traveling by car and not with an RV, and you pull into a rest area, you can get a little bit depressed. It happens when you see happy RVers walking in and out of their RVs, or maybe you see them sitting inside having a snack. You stare at them and realize that all you have is a car, which is totally boring compared to an RV.

No, this woman is not being tortured, nor is she a criminal being executed. She is getting her hair permed. But, really, this is not a real female person, but a mannequin. This is how they performed a hair permanent in the old days, so be thankful that you didn't live back then with a severe case of straight hair. We snapped this photo in a museum in Rigby, Idaho back in the '90s. The perm lady is probably still there, so check her out if you're passing through town. By the way, Rigby is the "Birthplace of TV," but we'll save that story for another time

Las Vegas, Nevada has the least precipitation per year (4.2 inches) and lowest relative humidity (20 percent) of all metropolitan areas in the USA. People have lived in the area for more than 12,000 years, but for most of that time they couldn't eat cheap buffets or play slot machines.

The Good Ol' Days

Paying to park

The first parking meters were installed in Oklahoma City in July, 1935. After that, parking meters began appearing all over the place. The thought at the time was that if every parking meter collected 25 cents a day, a staggering $1.25 million dollars a year could be raised.

As years passed, criminals found it easy to bust into a meter and steal the coins. So in the 1960s, the machines began sporting armored coin boxes. In 1960, New York City hired its first crew of women "Meter

1935 model parking meter

Maids." Men were hired seven years later. In 1997, there were about five million parking meters in the United States. Nowadays, the mechanical meters are steadily disappearing

Random RV Thought

Someone who commutes alone by car to work 10 or 15 miles a day likely burns far more gas or diesel fuel in a year than 95 percent of all RVers use in their RVs. Also, most RVers travel in pairs, making their fuel cost per passenger far less than the solo commuters. People who don't know anything about RVs who commute to work every day think RVers are gas hogs. They ought to look in their mirrors. Oink!.

Web Calendar

I put that new calendar of events together for all of us to view and haven't even been looking at it myself. I almost tried to drive up to the Square to have coffee this morning. You know the Fair Diddley Craft Show on the Square in Woodstock 10 am - 5 pm today. It says so right there in my web calendar.

Now that I have set up all of these events in the calendar I should look at it once in a while. This Web Calendar is a neat tool. It can set be used for public or private calendar. I could even set it up so you could use it for your stuff without everyone else seeing it.

I have set up a To Do list for me. If some one can find my old Birthday list from a long time ago I could put another 101 plus birthdays in the public calendar.

I think it lets me print this calendar so add June to this issue if I don't forget. I could do that about now because I am on page eleven and I am trying to keep it to twelve pages.

You can look at my Web Calendar at MartysRandomThoughts.com/webcalendar . It should show you the current month and you don't need to login or any things. If you want to change things or have your own calendar you will have to contact me because I must set it up for you.

Hummm...now I have to figure out how to add the Calendar to this newsletter.

Hide and Seek

I saw a picture with "le Relais des Arts" on it the other day. I looked it up to see what translates to in english. I think "Relais" means "Relay" in French. To me that means that "le Relais des Arts" must mean something like "The Relay of Arts"

My question to all of you is where did I see the picture with "le Relais des Arts" on it? Have you sent this picture anywhere in Woodstock?

No Free Lunch

In my note book I have a note to find the printable IHOP discount coupons. There is none. You get them form the Sunday paper of by filling out the comment cards in the stores. In most cases the printed ones from the internet are invalid.

Fair Diddley

I walked up town to check the craft fair. This place was packed. The weather was wonderful. It took me over an hour to go around and see what was up there. I think I looked into each crafter's display a little. There was a lot of neat stuff to look at. Some day when I look at all of those things I might even buy something. It didn't happen this year. I only saw four people I knew, first Ollie then Diane, Cheli, and Tonya. That enough Craft Fair for this year.
